

NW Working Dogs is proud to present: “BEGINNING DECOY TRAINING” with Master Trainer Butch Cappel

Are you interested in learning to safely catch a dog or becoming a certified decoy?

Then come meet Master Trainer Butch Cappel.

Butch is coming to Oregon to teach a one-day seminar on becoming a decoy.

This is a beginning level seminar that will include plenty of individual hands-on instruction.

An incredible opportunity to spend a full day learning and working with one of the best!

- ✓ Learn about proper decoy equipment.
- ✓ Develop excellent safety practices to keep you, the dogs and the public safe & happy!
- ✓ Understand the differences between prey driven and defensive breeds and how to approach them.
- ✓ Further your ability to read a dog and learn a variety of techniques to bring a dog out.
- ✓ Train in sleeve and full body bite techniques.

By the end of this training, you will have experience in catching soft, medium and hard dogs. Depending on experience & skills, you may even be ready to test for Level I Decoy Certification.

ABOUT BUTCH CAPPEL -
